

What have we been up to?

November 2016

For some jobs, one mastclimber just isn't enough. That's exactly the scenario Mastclimbers LLC faced when we got involved with the M-Residences down in Nashville, Tennessee. This epic high-rise is the brainchild of The Preston Partnership and follows on from another successful build in the city of Adelicia, right next to Music Row in Nashville.

At 19-stories high, this impressive development will eventually house 332 apartments overlooking historic downtown Nashville along with a rooftop lounge bar and 9000 square feet of dining and retail space below. For our part we provided no less than 16 Fraco ACT 8 Electric mastclimbers, quite the fleet. The machines were spaced out across the site providing 100 per cent coverage around the building. With 12 mastclimbers installed at the seventh floor podium, requiring two floors of shoring beneath each one, four of the units were installed at grade level. As there was still work going on above, all units came with overhead protection, safety will always be our number one priority.

This was a truly high profile project that required good planning and attention to detail, something Mastclimbers LLC are used to, to ensure the installation of the mastclimbers progressed smoothly and on schedule. But despite the magnitude, it was a real privilege for the Mastclimbers LLC team to be involved with one of the many large construction projects taking place as Nashville continues its upwards trajectory to economic success.

"This has been a great project to work on, we have listened to the customer's requirements and recognized the obstacles faced providing both practical and economic solutions," said Mastclimbers LLC's Mike Pitt. "Working directly with the general contractor on a project like this enables us to offer a great package including the right equipment, engineering and training, and a total support service at every turn." Jerry Young, is from Hoar Construction, the contractor currently committed to realizing M-Residences, "Everything is working great," he said. "We have built a good working relationship with the Mastclimbers LLC team and the job is moving forward well.

"The mastclimbers have been a great benefit to us."
